Mounts the Steps . . .

COLUMBIA

BIBLE COLLEGE

COLUMBIA, SOUTH CAROLINA

DEDI

Through his gift of opening the treasures of God's Word to us in simplicity and clarity, with his never-failing calmness and even temper, by his understanding interest in all our problems, Dr. Fleece has endeared himself to all of us who knew him in years past.

The Junior Class takes pleasure in dedicating to Dr. G. Allen Fleece the 1948 Finial, praying God's continued blessing on his ministry in other fields.

"Look at his face! What's the matter?"

Dr. Fleece looked all worn out, sad, and disheartened. Gone all day, he should have been eager to get back home. But today—well, he was just unhappy! At last the humiliating truth was out. He left home at daybreak, hopes high, promising a rare treat to his family. Now, after toiling patiently the long day through, he reluctantly trudged homeward with not even one small fish to reward his weary waiting.

But his luck wasn't always so bad. Many times his favorite sport yielded a delicious meal, and once even the CBC faculty table enjoyed a fresh fish dinner, "special delivery" from Dr. Fleece.

Dr. Fleece's fishing hobby is only one phase of his varied and interesting life.

With a keen sense of humor, and a wit that often was quite unexpected, Dr. Fleece frequently upset the dignity of a faculty meeting, while his classes were always new and fascinating.

Through his quiet dignity he commanded the respect of all who met him, and his kindly smile banished every thought of fear. His quick appreciation of another's joys, his ready sympathy in sorrow, together with his gracious manner toward all who know him, have combined to make Dr. Fleece one of God's grand men, one in whom the likeness of the Lord Jesus may be seen.

What is This?

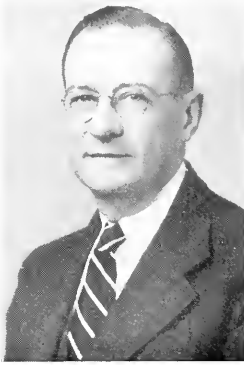

This is the place where, after more than four years of prayer and preparation, full time courses were begun at Columbia Bible College. Known then as Columbia Bible School, its entire visible possessions were this one room furnished with a single hanging blackboard, an organ with a soap-box stool, and about ten chairs; one teacher, Mr. McQuilkin; and a handful of earnest Christian students who attended every class.

Each successive year the Bible College has grown both outwardly and inwardly—materially and spiritually. As we follow throughout this book the steps of progress in the history of the college, let us remember that these first faithful few planted, others since have watered; but then, as now, the Lord giveth the increase.

“Run for your life even if you’re caught! And don’t breathe a word—remember, even the walls have ears!” It was 9:30 P. M. on Senior Hall. In exactly seven and one-half hours the Seniors were to make their get-away on the annual Senior Sneak. They were trying desperately to appear calm and composed, but it was agony. Suppose the Juniors had learned, and would be waiting to welcome them at the truck! Lurking sentries were imagined at every corner. As the time grew shorter, their dread mounted higher. But their fears were unfounded—the Juniors were fast asleep!

’48 victorious again! Unbelievable—but true, After catching the Seniors the year before, the class of ’48 had gotten away without waking one sleepy Junior.

The Senior Sneak climaxed four grand years of Christian companionship and social life. Friendships made have been one of the crowning blessings which members of the Senior class have received from classes and on the campus of CBC.

The pause that “refleashes”... The Spirit of ’48... “Broommates”

"We've been discriminated against!" The voice of the Junior class rose in dismay as the dreadful news leaked out. The Junior girls had been placed—every one of them—on the third floor of the New Dorm, with the Seniors all beneath so they could sneak out any old time—and the Juniors would never know they were gone! And that's what they did!

"Hold that line, boys! Hold that line!" It was the day of the football game—the Sophs and Seniors versus the Freshmen and Juniors. Since the day of the Senior Sneak the Juniors had dreamed of revenge, and now the time had come. Such grim determination could not but conquer. The whistle blew . . . the game was over . . . and the Juniors had cleared their name.

Life at CBC has really been great for the Junior class. Hard work, combined with healthful recreation and an occasional breakfast hike (like the one when Harold scrambled the eggs) has worked toward making each member of the class well rounded in his life. Above all else has been the Christian fellowship, serving to unite the Juniors in their purpose to "know Him and to make Him known."

"Dandy Mo" . . . A "suite" life . . . "Nickolouse!"

"He'll be here today!"
 It was Thanksgiving Day—the day when HE was to make HIS appearance. For days the school had been in an uproar. What does HE look like? How long will HE stay? Can I go out with HIM?

Many were the questions voiced by the excited students. And today HE was to arrive. An appropriately decorated jeep drove up on the football field. HIS loyal servants jumped out, laying out white carpets that HIS feet might not touch the cold ground. Before a crowd of eager admirers a frightened black "billy goat" descended from the royal carriage, accompanied by Mr. Broomall with his familiar, "Now take my goats, for instance."

Yes, the sophomores are overflowing with fun and the joy of living. And to balance their humor is a sincerity and purpose in all their activities. Their highest goal, in studies, in socials, and in Christian Service is that they might show forth the praises of the One who has called them out of darkness into His marvelous light.

Freshmen

An air of suspense pervaded the entire CBC campus as students from all parts of the country poured into the lobby on registration day. The occasion of this excitement was the entering Freshman class. "What will they be like?" was the question on every lip. But the poor Freshmen were the most mystified of all. Would they be considered as normal human beings or would they be ostracized as "green Freshmen?"

It was not long before their fears melted away before the friendliness and interest of the upper classmen. More and more the Freshmen came to feel that they were a vital part of Columbia Bible College. The crowning day of recognition and appreciation came on Thanksgiving Day, when the Freshman class (with the hearty participation of the illustrious Junior class!) carried the annual "Grits Bowl Classic."

To the freshmen CBC has also given a vision of the world wide need, and of the privilege they have in helping to supply this need.

Graduate School of Missions

From the four corners of the U.S.A. and one corner of Canada came the Graduate class this year. And their plans for the future include the four corners of the earth.

Since the creation of the Graduate School of Missions in September, people from all walks of graduate life have come to CBC. Doctors, teachers, and others trained in forestry, chemistry and engineering have left professional life to enter once more the halls of learning. Taught in the wisdom of the world, they have come here to learn of Christ and to train for missionary service at home and abroad.

Busy Steps

Student Association

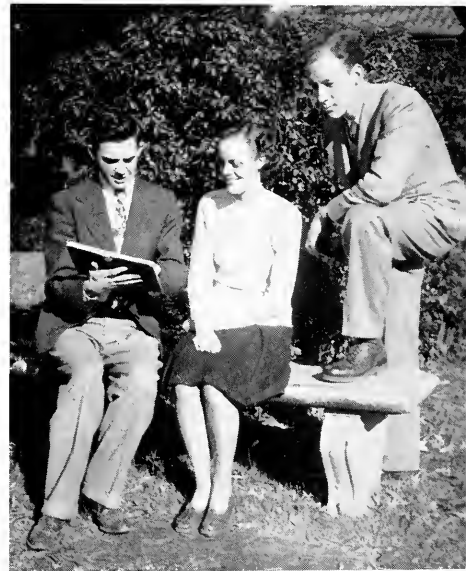

“Onward!” and “Upward!” are the watch-words of the Student Association which now consists of sixteen members representing the different classes and organizations of Bible College.

In its eighteen years of activity the Association not only has increased in numbers—having begun with only four charter members, who were elected by ballot—but has also helped to bring about a greater school spirit and a closer spiritual unity through the cooperation of Faculty and students.

Remember “Hey Day” and all the new students you met? Remember the Clean-up Campaign, and all the work you did? No one could forget the unique Christmas program and the party that followed, or the “Relief for Europe Campaign” to send food and clothing to those who have so little. These and many other responsibilities make the Student Association an essential to the progress of C. B. C.

From a paper-bound yearbook of 48 pages in 1939 THE FINIAL has grown each year in both size and quality.

More and more the desire of the initial FINIAL staff has been realized—that as the FINIAL is a crowning adornment of a tower, so THE FINIAL might be a crowning adornment to Columbia Bible College.

If there were no outward manifestation whatsoever of the work of this year's staff, they should still count their hours of labor worthwhile, for through them they have grown in the Lord. When they faced insurmountable difficulties, He strengthened them for the task, and gave fruitage for their labors.

Only those who work on future yearbooks will know how much this year's growth has depended upon the network of roots established by those who preceded them.

The Ce Be Cean

"I wonder when the next issue will be out?" This statement has lapsed into history as the new Ce-Be-Cean, with its new handy size and photo-offset style of printing, has emerged as a regular bi-weekly publication.

With the production time cut approximately in half, the CeBeCean now endeavors to make known to the student "the news as it happens" (at least before he hears about it). Now in its sixteenth year of publication, the CeBeCean has become a vital part of student life.

Philobiblonian Literary Society

"We are fellow Philobiblonians, in purpose united as one, Trustworthy still they shall find us, and true to the task we've begun."

For 16 years the Philobiblonian Literary Society has provided opportunities for public speaking, creative writing, and leadership, developing qualities that will be useful to its members whether they serve at home or abroad. Of definite value to each member of the student body is the bulletin board added this year to keep everyone "up on the news." Valuable and entertaining too was the assembly program giving hints for school—such as "Take your assignment, please!" Picnics and teas add to the social life of the members. And of course everyone remembers the New Year's style show, portraying the "New Look."

"Lit" has always taken an active part in training Christian leaders, and through the years to come, those leaders will remain "true to the task" begun at CBC and in the Philobiblonian Literary Society.

Philologist Lit aims to train men to serve Christ more effectively through a knowledge of the art of public speaking, and a familiarity with the gems of literature.

Bi-monthly meetings consist of impromptu speeches, which train the students in the ability to give public addresses; parliamentary drill, which prepares the students for participation in church business meetings; and devotional keynotes, which result in drawing the students closer to the Lord Jesus Christ.

Steps of Service

Christian Service

Providing practical experience in soul-winning, teaching, and related ministries, Christian service is an integral part of the preparation of each student at CBC. Everyone is given an opportunity for supervised service—actually winning souls to the Saviour while he is studying under consecrated Christian leaders who can help him solve his problems from week to week.

The Christian Service departments supply workers for Sunday Schools, Junior Churches, orphanages, playgrounds, Bible clubs and classes for both colored and white, jails, reform schools, chain gangs, and prisons. Several of the men are pastors of churches. This year the purchase of many Christian service vehicles included a "Gospel Car," designed to reach children in sections of Columbia not touched in other ways.

Thus the Christian Service Department is primarily a laboratory providing for every student a practical application of his classroom theory.

In Memoriam

WILLIAM MADISON WILSON

“But seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you.” Matthew 6:33, his life verse.

He has not left us—this friend who, on September 15, 1947, passed through the shadow of death to the sunlight of the presence of God. Madison Wilson, veteran and missionary volunteer, though struck down by a drunken driver, is reaping in death the harvest of seed sown in a life characterized by unswerving devotion to the cause of Christ. The tract “One Day at the Fair,” relating briefly the facts of his conversion and subsequent zeal for Christ, has already been used to bring many souls to Christ. His testimony in life and death has challenged each of us as his classmates to strive more earnestly for the salvation of those souls for whom his Saviour and ours has died.

Truth For Youth

One of the most interesting of all the student activities is the weekly radio broadcast, planned and produced by the students themselves. Truth For Youth began November, 1945, broadcasting over WKIX with 250 watts. Since that date the station has increased to 1000 watts, and the program reaches out in all directions telling forth in song and testimony the glad tidings of Christ.

The Truth For Youth Octette have made themselves indispensable. The male quartette and the women's trios have become equally well known, and these, together with occasional duets and solos, give to the broadcast a colorful variety of sacred music.

Again, it is usually the students who bring the testimonies and the impelling Gospel message, setting forth to the youth of Columbia the reality of Christ in a young person's life.

Music

Music is vital to Christian Service. In the past few years the faculty has sought to build up the Music department in order that those who train here might go forth equipped to give out the gospel message not only in word, but also in song. Courses in notation, hymnology, and music appreciation provide the foundation and background for the more advanced fields of voice, piano, and conducting. There are also opportunities to sing in groups—trios, quartettes, and larger choral groups. By taking advantage of these courses, each student may gain the musical knowledge which plays so important a part in the training of successful Christian workers.

OFFICERS

Outstanding campus organization at CBC is FMF—local chapter of the National Student Foreign Missions Fellowship. Special distinction of the local chapter is that it is the parent chapter of the national organization.

In the summer of 1935 FMF was born at the summer conference grounds in Ben Lippen. This step was taken after the prayerful consideration of those interested in the Student Volunteer Movement.

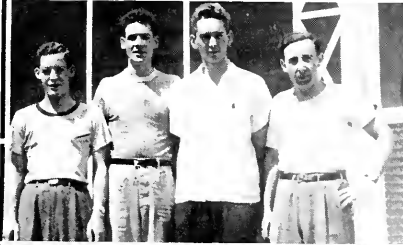

From this small beginning the Fellowship soon reached out to Christian students in Universities, Colleges, and Bible Institutes throughout the whole United States. Last year the national officers of the FMF felt it advantageous to merge with the Inter-Varsity Fellowship in order to promote the realization of a world-wide missionary vision among the secular schools as well. Since this merger many new chapters have been added, helping to fulfill the FMF motto, "The Lord Jesus Christ unto the uttermost."

The fact that over 200 students have gone forth to the foreign field shows the effectiveness of the local chapter in stimulating missionary interest on the campus through its program of weekly meetings, deputations, and missionary giving.

Aviation

“Hey Ralph! I’ve soloed! Boy, was it great!” This enthusiastic greeting has become a familiar one this year. Many students have soloed, and four have received their private pilot’s licenses.

It is a thrilling event when one of these student fliers goes up into the blue for the first time alone; but it’s nothing to the thrill there will be a few years from now, when these same students are out on the harvest fields of the world speeding the spread of the Gospel through this new method of missionary endeavor.

Introduced at CBC in January, 1946, through the cooperation of the Hawthorne Flying Service, this department now merits a special curriculum in the catalogue entitled “Missionary Aviation.”

HAPPY EXECUTIVES

Alumni

Though scattered around the world, CBC alumni are vitally united to the college by the work of the Alumni Association.

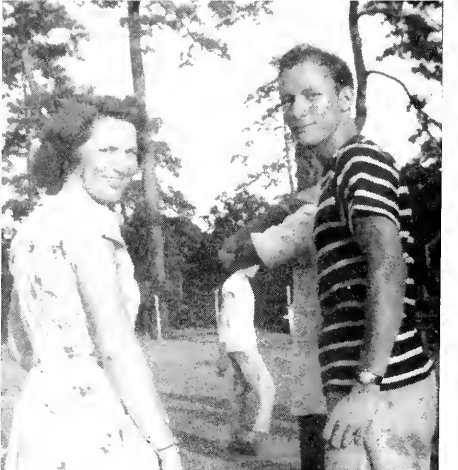

Important forward step of the graduates this year was the appointment of a full-time alumni secretary on the campus to integrate the alumni program and interests. This year's alumni secretary, Miss Marguerite McQuilkin, supervised publication of the CeBeCequel, alumni newspaper, and the alumni directory, handled all alumni correspondence, and managed the campus office. Alumni contributions this year reached a new high under the new program.

Homecoming on Thanksgiving day was another new project of the association under direction of the executive committee. The largest and most successful homecoming in the history of the old grads, the Homecoming day program was climaxed by the evening convocation put on by alumni for the entire college family.

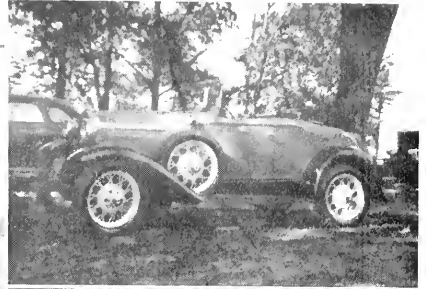

Latest reports from the alumni office show over 200 members now on the mission field. Another 75 men are pastors; over 60 women teaching, the majority of whom teach Bible in the public schools.

What is This?

From the single room pictured at the beginning of this book to the buildings represented above—this is the extent of the outward growth of Columbia Bible College in its first twenty-five years. The tiny mustard seed is become a tree. And yet, this is but a poor representation of the growth that has taken place for outward growth is only a means to an end. Eternity alone will tell the wonders of the real growth—that which has taken place in the heart and life of every student who has sojourned at Columbia Bible College. "What hath God wrought!"
